This year’s Festival includes a concentration in applications of profinite groups. There will be two introductory workshops and a panel discussion. For registration and further details, please see the festival webpage:

http://www.math.cornell.edu/~festival/

There is an application form for financial support on the web page. Young researchers are particularly encouraged to apply. The organizers gratefully acknowledge the continuous support of the National Science Foundation.